Centurion Electronics plc ("Company" or "Centurion") New Customer Supply Contract

- New Contract Win with Honda Access Europe NV

Centurion Electronics plc, the UK provider of in-car infotainment systems, is pleased to announce that it has been awarded a new contract to supply its latest unique modular integrated in-car entertainment (ICE) system as an option for Honda Access Europe NV.

The system will be launched across Europe, with the initial supply being offered as an option on the new CR-V.

The new modular ICE system has been specifically designed according to customer requirement and can be used outside the car as well as being fully integrated within the vehicle.

The patent protected, twin-screen system will be launched within the CR-V's 2008 model year with production during Q4 of 2007 calendar year. It is anticipated that revenues will start to contribute to Centurion's trading results for the financial year ending September 2008.

Commenting on this new contract, Chris Rhodes, CEO at Centurion said:

"We are very pleased to have secured this new contract with such a respected automotive accessories manufacturer and are looking forward to working with Honda Access Europe NV in developing their range of in-car entertainment systems."

"Our existing contractual projects combined with a number of opportunities with other leading automotive brands will continue to widen the supply chain and ultimately reduces our dependency on any one brand. These developments we believe will be reflected in the Company's trading performance in the financial year ending September 2008 onwards."
