

Strictly embargoed until: 07.30, 7 April 2003

AGREEMENT WITH NISSAN

Centurion Electronics plc (Centurion), a UK market leader in the field of in-car audio-visual entertainment which recently listed on AIM, has signed an agreement with Nissan to supply the new 2003 model Nissan Micra with a bespoke in-car DVD system. This agreement has been entered into with MSX International Limited, a preferred supplier for UK Micra accessories.

The system will be offered as an aftermarket dealer fitted accessory option, and will be available from this spring throughout all 229 Nissan dealers. Designed for rear seat passenger entertainment, it incorporates a 5.6 inch TFT LCD monitor, providing high quality images, and an integrated DVD player located in the glove box.

Steven Cunningham, Chairman of Centurion, commented "Our relationship with Nissan is a further endorsement of our ability to develop and implement vehicle specific systems for motor manufacturers. In the first year, we expect to deliver in excess of 1000 systems. There are currently thousands of Micras sold throughout the UK each year and moving forward we believe this to be a fantastic opportunity."

For further information please contact:

Steven Cunningham, Chairman, Centurion Electronics, Tel: 01707 330550
email: steven@ceplc.net

Lindsay Mair/John Prior, Corporate Synergy, Tel: 020 76262244
email: lmair@corporatesynergy.co.uk

Claire Melly/Melissa Hubbard, Tavistock Communications, Tel: 020 76002288
email: cmelly@tavistock.co.uk